TONGMEN WARFARE FLARES IN FOUR CITIES

5 PERSONS ARE KILLED, 3 HURT IN LAST 2 DAYS

THREATS OF GOVERNMENT OF DEPORTATION HAVE LITTLE EFFECT

TONG LEADERS AND ANY OTHERS UNABLE TO PROVE RIGHT IN THIS COUNTY AFFECTED

(By United Press)

Tongmen's guns have killed five persons and wounded three others in four cities in the last two days, despite threats of U. S. Attorney Charles Tuttle in New York to deport national tong leaders and any other Chinese unable to prove their right in this country.

The casualty list:

Newark—One Chinese, kinsman of Hip Sing tongman, dead.

The warfare, according to those wise in the ways of tongs, arose through belief by Hip Sing men that the larger and wealthier On Leong tong was prosecuting its members.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Police forestalled today what they believe was an effort to murder Willie Lee, head of the On Leong tong, and a further outbreak of the tong war that was renewed over the week-end.

Ching Bing, 24, was picked up by a detective squad near the vicinity of Willie Lee's home. Ching Bing tried to throw away a pistol when the detectives seized him.

Ching was taken to a hospital where he was identified by Kay Leon Wong as the man who shot him last Sunday. Wong is reported to be a member of the On Leong faction.

Boston, Aug. 6.—The narrow little cobble-stoned streets of Boston's Chinatown were deserted today except for patrolling squads of policemen, rushed into this bit of transplanted Orient to guard against another tong outbreak such as the one last night in which two Chinese were killed.

Three suspects were under arrest. One of them was identified by an unnamed 18-year-old girl as the slayer of Yee Wah, a laundry proprietor. Yee Wah was killed in the doorway of his laundry by tong "hatchetmen" who discarded their revolvers near the scene.

Almost at the moment the bullets found their mark in Wah, other "hatchetmen" made Shing Hing, an interpreter for the United States immigration service here, their victim. Hing died before reaching a hospital.

New York, Aug. 6.—Less than two hours after United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle had issued a warning to warring tongs here, another Chinese was shot to death last night.

Chin Lee, who owned a laundry in East 116th Street, was struck by three bullets. Passersby told of seeing two men flee from the scene and a .38-calibre pistol was found close to Lee's body.

That occurred shortly after the United States and Chinese governments had combined forces in an attempt to halt the tong killings which have broken out in several cities in the last three days.

Samuel S. Young, Chinese consul here, co-operated with Tuttle in issuing the warning to Eddie Gong, secretary of the Hip Sings, and Henry Sing, former national secretary of the On Leongs.

Tuttle told the Chinese that unless they brought the feud to an end immediately, he might be forced to resort to deportation.

During the tong war of 1924-25 Emory R. Buckner, then United States attorney, deported about 100 Chinese and succeeded in halting the conflict.

Newark also has been the scene of Chinese outbreaks, Louis Gah Fung, a neutral, having been mortally wounded Sunday.

New York, Aug. 6.—A federal edict "peace or pack up" caused Hip Sing and On Leong tong leaders to call off their national warfare today.

U. S. Atty. Charles H. Tuttle called presidents of the rival tongs into conference at the Chinese consulate general and told them he would make raids and deport every Chinese who had entered this country in the last five years unless they called off shootings which already have claimed five lives in New York, Newark, Boston and Chicago.

The Chinese consul general, Samuel S. Young, offered to arbitrate the dispute, said to have arisen because the Hip Sings believed the larger and richer On Leong tong had proselyted Hip Sing members.

The tong presidents thereupon agreed that their war was over.

They immediately sent telegrams to their tong branches in every large city—from Boston to San Francisco and Los Angeles—telling them to stop the shootings and submit all further disagreements to Young's arbitration.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 6.—The Wisconsin senate today defeated a bill providing for state manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor, 12 to 9.

The statesman said he would return to Lossiemouth late in the week.

AMERICAN LEGION IN CONVENTION AT WINONA TO WAGE LEGISLATIVE BATTLE

BRAINERD LEGION AUXILIARY BAND ATTRACTS FAVORABLE NOTICE AND COMMENT

Winona, Minn., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—Prepared to present a united front in the legislative battle for conservation of natural resources in the state, the 12,000 or more delegates to the tenth annual convention of the Minnesota American Legion and Auxiliary today began consideration of several resolutions already drawn up in committee.

With the probable heated discussion over election of officers lurking in the background and an extensive entertainment schedule to serve as a buffer against the more serious business of the convention, delegates today anticipated almost a unanimous stand in favor of the following points:

Adoption of a resolution calling upon the war department in Washington to provide additional hospitalization facilities for disabled veterans in Minnesota. Increased housing facilities at the St. Cloud and Fort Snelling hospitals are expected to be asked.

Adoption of a proposal by the conservation committee for legislation to create a department of conservation under the direction of one man in the state government.

Plans to move the state Auxiliary headquarters from Minneapolis to St. Paul where they might be housed in state office buildings with the Legion.

Opposition to the Johnson draft bill pending in the United States senate with recommendation that it be changed to include conscription of wealth as well as man power.

Proposal to indorse the Wabasha street site for the location of the new $1,500,000 state office building in St. Paul to coincide with the wishes of citizens of St. Paul.

Six bands, 19 drum corps and two women's drill teams continued, the Legionaires declared today, to furnish more color and noise than ever before displayed at a state convention.

Among the organizations attracting attention at the convention were the Brainerd Auxiliary band, the St. Paul fourth district band and the Faribault drum corps, all of which appeared at the dedication of the city airport late Monday.

STOPPED FOR DRINK OF WATER AND LOSES $200,000 SECURITIES

They were stolen yesterday from the office of Arthur E. Frank & Co., when James Waltz, youthful runner, laid a wallet containing the stocks and bonds down on a bench while he walked over to a water cooler for a drink.

It was the largest securities theft to be reported in the financial district this year.

$600,000 CHARTERED YACHT SEIZED

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—Louis Mendelssohn, Detroit capitalist, plans to offer the government $30,000 to release his $600,000 chartered yacht "Margo," which was seized by prohibition agents here after they claimed liquor had been found aboard, according to reports here today.

A federal grand jury will investigate next month to determine whether rum running charges shall be made against the owner or crew.

Hope to Solve Political, Economic Problems Which Have Been in Conflict Past 15 Years

STATESMEN AND EXPERTS GATHER AT THE HAGUE

REPRESENT SIX OF PRINCIPAL POWERS INVOLVED IN THE WORLD WAR

GREAT BRITAIN, JAPAN, FRANCE, GERMANY, ITALY, BELGIUM PRESENT

The Hague, Aug. 6—(U.P.)—Statesmen and financial experts representing six of the principal powers involved in the world war gathered here today for an international conference in the hope of liquidating political and economic problems which remain from the conflict which began 15 years ago this month.

The principal nations represented at the conference were Great Britain, Japan ,France, Germany, Italy and Belgium. Contrary to the hopes of the European nations that the United States would join the conference, Washington was represented only unofficially, by E. C. Wilson who is attached to the United States embassy at Paris.

France was represented by Premier Aristide Briand as chief delegate, Great Britain by Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, and Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, and Germany by Dr. Gustav Stresemann.

The fate of the conference hinged on many problems on which the various nations were at great divergence. On of the principal questions today, as the delegates prepared to go into plenary session was whether Great Britain would change its attitude on the Young war reparations.

In many quarters it was believed that this problem would decide early the fate of the whole negotiations. Great Britain, according to recent declarations by Snowden, will demand that Britain's share of the reparations payments on the Young plan be increased, presumably at a cost to France and Italy.

Germany, too, will have certain claims to make. First of all, it was clearly stated by Dr. Stresemann that Germany will demand the immediate evacuation of the occupied Rhineland territory with no strings attached.

ASKS INJUNCTION TO RESTRAIN HUSBAND FROM BEATING HER

Chicago, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—The O'Cedar floor mop and polish millions were under fire from two angles today with filing of a divorce suit against Edward C. Channell, vice president of the corporation, by Mrs. Victoria Channell, charging habitual drunkenness and cruelty.

Recently Channell, father of Edward and president of the firm, was sued for $100,000 breach of promise damages by Miss Ruth Tromley, a former mannekin.

Mrs. Channel,, in her suit, charges her husband battered her about the rooms of their summer home in Michigan and asked an injunction to restrain her husband from beating her.

DIPLOMA MILL IS INVESTIGATED

INQUIRY INTO ALLEGED SPURIOUS LICENSES RESULTS IN INDICTMENT

Chicago, Aug. 6.—(U.P.) — A diploma mill, alleged to have forged graduates' certificates of reputable Illinois medical schools, was being investigated today in connection with the inquiry into the fake physicians' and dentists' license ring.

A confession, said to have been obtained from Jacob Crane, once the owner of a Springfield printing plant, may involve several Chicago printing and engraving concerns, Chief Investigator Patrick Roche of the State's attorney's office announced.

The inquiry into the spurious licenses has resulted in the indictment of W. H. H. Miller, former head of the state board of registration and education, and eight others on conspiracy charges.

Crane was arrested on the disclosure from a victim that he paid $8,500 for a forged license and a bogus diploma.

State's Attorney Roche declared that Crane had confessed to aiding in producing photostatic copies of diplomas of Rush medical college and the Northwestern University medical school.

Roche said he had connected several Chicago engraving concerns with manufacturing spurious seals attached to the diplomas and licenses.

San Francisco, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—With four persons dead within the last two days from eating poisoned mussels and clams, the state board of health today announced extension of the quarantine on mussels on the coast from Monterey county to Del Norte county.

Approximately 400 miles of the California coast now is under quarantine, from the center of the state to the Oregon line.

In addition to the four already dead, five persons are at the San Francisco Harbor Emergency hospital in critical condition from the same cause.

NORTHLAND SELLS TO GREYHOUND BUS LINES

CONSIDERATION OF SALE IS ANNOUNCED AS $5,000,000 BY OFFICIALS

NORTHLAND HAS OPERATED AS SUBSIDIARY OF GREAT NORTHERN RY.

St. Paul, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—Sale of the Northland Transportation Motor Bus Company to the Motor Transit Corporation and Automotive Investments, Inc., operators of the Greyhound Bus Lines, was announced here today by officials of the Great Northern railway.

The consideration in the sale of the Northland Cmopany, which operates extensively in Minnesota, was announced as $5,000,000.

The Northland Company has operated as a subsidiary of the Great Northern since its organization in 1925. It now is said to operate more than 3,300 miles of lines with annual revenue of $2,500,000.

In announcing the sale, Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, said the Railroad Company would continue to hold a strong minority interest in the company and that it be represented on the board of directors.

The Greyhound Lines, which operate busses from coast to coast, will direct the operation of the Minnesota company, however, Budd said. Under the terms of the sale the new company, which will be known as the Northland Greyhound Lines, will cooperate with the Great Northern by giving supplementary service to the train service, Budd announced.

Budd pointed out in discussing the sale that the Minnesota, under its new directorship, will have direct connections with the transcontinental service of the Greyhound Lines.

The town of Bunkerville was reported caught by the cloudburst. All residents, however, were believed to have escaped to the hills.

Three deaths were reported today in cloudbursts in California and Nevada in the past 24 hours.

WARRANT CHARGES BANKER WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

RECORDS OF J. B. GREENFIELD & CO. SEIZED BY THE AUTHORITIES

COMPLAINTS MADE OF CUSTOMERS DEFRAUDED OF HALF MILLION DOLLARS

Chicago, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—A warrant was out today charging with embezzlement J. B. Greenfield, former national bank examiner in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Michigan and head of the bond brokerage firm of J. B. Greenfield & Co., maintaining offices in Chicago and Detroit.

Records of the concern were seized by Assistant State's Attorney Arthur Carlsten who is investigating complaints that the company has defrauded customers—many of them intrusted with widow's estates and other beneficiary funds—of more than $500,000.

Action was taken against Greenfield after he failed to keep a promise to place $500,000 in the hands of Assistant State's Attorney Carlsten by noon yesterday to make good on undelivered securities.

The firm, in recent months, has been dealing almost exclusively in trustee Standard Oil shares at approximately 14.75 each, Carlsten said.

More than 150 complaints accusing Greenfield's firm of failing to deliver shares that were paid for have reached the state's attorney's office in the last three days, Carlsten revealed.

Approximately $425,000 worth of shares were sold out undelivered, Carlsten said.

CONFESSION MAY CLEAR UP MANY SMALL ROBBERIES

Waseca, Minn., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—The confession of William R. Nichols, 41, who was overpowered and rendered unconscious by employees of a local hotel during an attempted hold-up of the clerk, was believed today to clear up a number of small robberies throughout the state.

The confession of the captured bandit included the robbery of a Rochester hotel, the theft of a car in Lincoln, Neb., and information that at one time he has served time in Red Wing reformatory and the state prison at Stillwater, the latter sentence of four years for robbery of the New Ulm depot.

Nichols, alias J. R. Williams, was captured early Monday morning when slugged unconscious by his own gun wrested from him by F. O. Morison, proprietor of a Waseca hotel and his son Bob, whom the bandit attempted to holdup.

LONG CRUISE FROM LAKEHURST STARTS TOMORROW

GREAT AIRSHIP IS BEING FILLED WITH HYDROGEN AND ETHANE

DR. ECKNER FEARS TROUBLE CROSSING THE SIBERIAN TUNDRA WASTES

By LYLE C. WILSON

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 6.—Perils unknown even to such hardy adventurers as trans-Atlantic fliers await the Graf Zeppelin on its round-the-world flight, in the opinion of Dr. Hugo Eckner, commander of the dirigible.

The long cruise is scheduled to start from here Wednesday at midnight and 60 men worked today at refueling the great airship. They were filling her both with hydrogen, the lifting gas, and ethane, the fuel gas, and it was expected the work would not be finished before tomorrow evening.

Dr. Eckner believes that most formidable obstacles in the way of realization of his dream of an aerial circumnavigation of the world will be encountered in the silences over the Siberian tundra wastes, between Friedrichshafen and Tokio.

Asia offers no radio protection to aerial navigators. There are not even adequate maps. For land marks, Eckner must utilize the great rivers which twist through the Russo-Asiatic plains. The Graf will be in danger of being shot at by an anxious villager unaware of its peaceful mission.

Germany's great wireless stations at Nauen will keep in touch with the Graf. But Nauen will have no means of predicting weather conditions ahead of the dirigible.

To land in the tundras region without destroying the ship probably would be impossible. No mooring mast or trained ground crew would be available.

The Pacific ocean apparently concerns Eckner but slightly. He will fly north of ship lanes, along the Aleutian Island group to the vicinity of Seattle, Wash., where he will turn south to his first American stop at Los Angeles.

"Our route over Siberia to Japan will depend on weather conditions," Eckner said. "I would like to take the northern route through Siberia and down the coast of Saghalien. That will be the most difficult part of our journey.

"We have no maps and there are no radio stations and we must depend on big rivers for our positions. It is my desire that we avoid the southern route because of the high altitude of its deserts.

"It will be about 6,500 miles from Germany to Tokio but I cannot predict the round-world distance. Perhaps 22,000 miles would approximate our journey; it will depend upon weather conditions.

"We will return here September 3 or 4. If we get tail winds it will be sooner."

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 6.—Responsibility for pioneering an aerial, commercial air route around the world has failed to make Dr. Hugo Eckner, of the Graf Zeppelin, down-hearted.

"What is the gravest danger confronting you on the journey?" the skipper was asked today. He considered long and carefully.

"I am most afraid of famine." he rumbled in German, "because you see our stopping places are so far apart."

The Zeppelin commander is in splendid spirits. His aim in life, he confided, is to impress bankers that his project for commercial dirigible transportation is not only safe but that it will make money.

He is expected to be in New York today on Goodyear-Zeppelin business believed to be not unrelated to the problem of convincing capitalists they should put money in Zeppelins.

"They are very cautious, these financiers," Eckner smilingly complained.

EAGLES CONVENE AT MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—Hourly parades from the railway and bus station to their hotels where gaily uniformed bands played in lobbies, marked a typical convention day here today as 2,000 members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles gathered from all parts of the United States for their thirty-first annual convention.

The convention was officially opened last night at the Lyceum theatre when Mayor Kunze presented a key to the city to Edward J. Ryan of Philadelphia, grand worthy president.

Hoover Outlines $5,000,000 Prison Expansion Program

Washington, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—A canvass of conditions in federal prisons undertaken by President Hoover in the wake of the recent disturbances at Leavenworth, Kan., has convinced the chief executive that expansion of prison facilities cannot be lonk delayed.

The president today outlined a $5,000,000 program to provide increased facilities.

Taken From the Indian

The word "succotash" is Indian in origin. It is a corruption of a Narragansett name for an ear of corn as distinguished from corn cracked or broken by pounding. Roger Williams used the word in this wise. By 1778 it had the meaning of corn mixed with beans and perhaps bears' flesh. Now succotash is a mixture of corn with lima beans or string beans.

September 1 ends the closed season in Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas for prairie chickens, grouse and other upland fowl except quail. Tourists coming into these states about that time will have not only the very best of fishing, but an opportunity to shoot land and water fowl—a combination that is to be found in very few states of the union.

WHAT PRICE BEAUTY?

Blonde Loveliness of Claire Windsor Revealed in Photo Play, "Captain Lash"

What price beauty?

Claire Windsor, a guest of Captain and Mrs. W. H. Fawcett at Breezy Point Lodge, acclaimed one of the most beautiful blondes in pictures and the particular pride of all cameramen due to her perfect photographic possibilities, became so discouraged a few months ago that she contemplated either dyeing her hair auburn or black, or quitting pictures altogether.

From the time she made her first screen test, until a few weeks ago, Miss Windsor was always one of the first actresses considered by directors casting a picture if the lead called for, principally, a beautiful blonde, who photographed marvelously well and could wear fashionable gowns.

Rather than express delight over the directors' good judgment, Miss Windsor was inclined to rebel. Her one obsession was to capture a leading role that would give her an opportunity to do some real acting.

Then came an interview with John G. Blystone, director, who was about to put into production "Captain Lash," the picture now playing at the Lyceum.

"Will you give me the chance you gave Madge Bellamy?" queried Miss Windsor.

"I'll go the limit," promised Blystone.

A New Door needed on the Back Porch

The Back Door looks a little neglected, doesn't it? For one thing, the screening has rusted and fallen away in spots. Doesn't keep the flies out. And the delivery boys and the ice man have soiled the woodwork. It does look mussy. It isn't much of a job to put in new netting and to paint the main door and the frame of the other. Let's get busy. Stopping in Center of Road

A MINNESOTA Highway Commission bulletin calls attention to the dangerous practice of some people who persist in stopping in the center of a highway. Driving in the center is objectionable enough, but parking there is the height of foolishness. The bulletin states:

The state traffic law provides that no person shall park or leave standing any vehicle, whether attended or unattended, upon the paved or main traveled portion of any highway outside of a municipality, when it is practicable to park outside the paved or main traveled portion of the highway. It further provides that in no case shall a vehicle be left standing on a highway unless there is a clear width of at least fifteen feet for the free passage of other vehicles, nor unless a clear view of said vehicle may be obtained from a distance of 200 feet in each direction.

This law is frequently violated, according to reports made by the new state traffic patrolmen, many drivers stopping in the middle of the road to fix tires, leaving the car there while making purchases at roadside stands, or going on other errands. This practice is extremely dangerous. The patrolmen have warned many drivers but they reach only a portion of the offenders. Every time a driver violates this rule he runs the risk of a serious accident.

Another dangerous practice is stopping to look at cars which have been in accidents. If you are first on the scene, and can be of any help, stop by all means, but pull your car to the side of the road. If the injured have been taken care of, keep moving. A congestion of cars at the scene of an accident very often leads to more accidents and helps no one.

Protecting Railway Crossings

OFFICIALS of the Northern Pacific railway and members of the city council are to be commended for taking up the matter of greater protection at railway crossings after 6 p. m. and until 8 a. m. These are the hours when the watchmen on three busy crossings are withdrawn.

Much of the heaviest vehicle traffic in Brainerd occurs after 6 p. m. In the summertime the evenings see a large increase in motor travel. People drive down town, they go to the theater, tourists and other lake dwellers drive to town.

People are used to seeing flagmen at busy crossings to give them the signal to drive ahead or to stop. When no flagman is seen after 6 p. m. many a tourist believes no signal means, "Come ahead."

The suggestion has been made that placing floodlights at our main crossings will aid traffic to gain a clear view of the tracks and thus protect itself. Such lights are now maintained at the Fourth street railway crossing.

Conditions are to be studied further and recommendations will be made to the council by the railway company. In the meantime, too, the council members will examine into conditions and arrive at their own conclusions.

The Mergers, Where Will They Lead Us?

THE growing tendency in business toward consolidation with gigantic corporations has brought the suggestion that modern business may be moving towards a feudal system of its own, says a financial writer.

All manner of business, industries, stores, commercial and even professional enterprises are joining the movement to gain security under the broad and protecting arm of gigantic superhouses.

The independent units are dwindling in number every year. They find it difficult, says this writer, to meet the competition of centrally administered organizations which can operate on small profit margins.

Electricians, plumbers, even shoe repairmen and skilled workers of all kinds have come under the same influence. Instead of individuals operating their shops on a personal basis they have become employes of corporate organizations.

The professions of law, medicine, dentistry, science and engineering have not escaped. Thousands of graduates are finding that they must hitch their wagons to some central organization to make a living.

If this keeps on, we shall soon be a large body of hired men and the directing strings will ultimately be extended to New York, Chicago and other large financial centers.

—o—

The Front Porch

IF this new building idea takes still firmer root, we see where the front porch is doomed. And what memories the old front porch brings up.

There was the vine-tangled front and the screens which had suffered a tear or two and permitted entry of a few festive mosquitoes. There was the porch swing built for two and preempted by sister and her beau.

There is where the family sat when sister was not in possession and breathed a bit of cool air. Pa was wont to sit there in a rocker and read the evening paper.

And now comes the renaissance period and the front porch passes and we have a sun parlor and a new entrance. The sun parlor does double duty, for it can be used summer and winter. It gives the carpenter and the architects chances to work out new ideas.

The old porch is going, in fact it is passe "right now." Nevertheless a lot of fond memories cling to the porch, but it's going, just like haircloth sofas, Victorian age relics, lounges, etc., etc. Things would be a dreary world if we never had any style changes. The only sad thing is that we take our style changes en masse.

MILWAUKEE LEADER TO BE REORGANIZED

Madison, Wis., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—Incorporation papers for reorganization of the Milwaukee Leader were filed with the secretary of state by State Senator Thomas M. Duncan of Milwaukee.

Victor L. Berger, former congressman and socialist leader, will continue to act as editor of the paper but the new organization will place Duncan in active connection, Duncan explained.

The new organization will be known as "Publishers, Inc.," incorporated for $125,000.

Duncan is expected to resign as secretary to Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee. He has been active in the Wisconsin legislature since 1922, when he was chosen to the assembly where he served three terms as an assemblyman before being elected to the state senate.

He was author of the resolution submitting the question of state dry law repeal to the voters. Duncan is 36 years old.

POLICE CHIEF MAY HAVE TO GO TO COURT TO COLLECT SALARY

Hastings, Neb., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—Chief of Police John Bramble, who is having difficulty in collecting his salary check, and who was threatened with being "starved out" by the city council, may have to go to court to get his salary.

And while he contemplated legal action to force payment of his salary, which the council refused to grant at the last meeting the council hesitated over the next step. They denied, however, that they proposed to cut his salary to $25 a month.

Three times, the chief was paid $175 a month, then an ordinance provided that his salary should be $170. At the last meeting the salary expenditure was not approved.

The city fathers were warned today that as long as Bramble continues in office he may collect through a civil suit.

FORMER KAISER TO RETURN TO GERMANY

Berlin, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—The radical newspaper Welt Am Abend reported today that representatives of the German monarchist movement are now at Doorn to discuss with former Kaiser Wilhelm his possible return to Germany. The "law for the protection of the public" having expired Wilhelm is free to return to Germany if he wishes.

The newspaper said the ex-kaiser's return had been definitely decided upon, the only hitch being a difference of opinion over whether it should be this autumn or next spring.

Saving miles of walking

Can you imagine what shopping would be if there were no advertisements?

Suppose your list of needs included a morning dress, a pair of tan pumps, a set of those little silver salt and pepper shakers, some bath towels and a new awning for the porch. You would want each article, of course, in a particular color or shape or style; each at a price within a certain range. How would you go about finding them, with no advertisements to rely on?

Probably you would start at the "likely" stores and keep on and on, tramping up and down aisles, questioning sales people and floorwalkers, till your nerves were frazzled and your feet were sore.

Instead, you can sit down with the paper at home and find out in a few minutes just what stores are featuring the things you need. You know they will be dependable goods, at fair prices. With the advertisements as a guide you can plan your route, get your shopping done early, and have time for a movie or a chat with your friends.

YANKEES IN DESPERATE DRIVE TO OVERTAKE MACKMEN

HUGGINS' TEAM HAS AT BEST A SLIM CHANCE

LOSING ITS PRESTIGE AS GREATEST OF MODERN SCORING MACHINES

NOW FACE SEEMINGLY INSURMOUNTABLE HANDICAP, 11½ GAMES LEAD

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 6.—The final desperate drive of the New York Yankees to overtake the Philadelphia Athletics starts today.

Everyone interested in baseball agrees that Miller Huggins' club has but a slim chance of maintaining its prestige as the greatest of modern scoring machines, but only a year ago the present American League pacemakers began a victorious march which nearly carried them to the pennant and made a real contest out of the 1928 race.

Facing the seemingly insurmountable obstacle of a handicap of 11½ games, the Yankees open their assault upon their rivals' lead in a doubleheader at the local stadium with the Washington Senators.

Then they go to Philadelphia for three games with the Athletics before setting out on a final swing through the west.

The return of Waite Hoyt to uniform, if not to pitching form, and the fact that Babe Ruth is rapidly clubbing his way upwards toward another home run hitting title, heartened the Yanks today.

It was during August of last year that the Mackmen, seemingly as hopelessly beaten as the Yankees look now, whittled away the last of a lead of 13½ games and overtook the local club early in September.

Should baseball history repeat itself, the two leading American League contenders would be on even terms a month hence.

This time, however, the Athletics, racing along out in front by nearly a dozen games, show no signs of falling into a slump such as beset the New York club last year. Everything favors the Mackmen.

NEXT THREE WEEKS DECIDES WARM ISSUE

CUBS HAVE ENVIABLE RECORD, WON 20 OF THEIR LAST 22 GAMES

SOON TO GO EASTWARD TO PLAY 17 GAMES ON ROAD, OUTCOME TELLS STORY

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Aug. 6. — The next three weeks should decide whether Mr. William Wrigley's baseball team, the Chicago Cubs, will win or lose the National League pennant.

Having won 20 of their last 22 games the Cubs close their home stand today in a game with the Brooklyn Robins and then point eastward to play 17 games on the road before returning to their home lot. The outcome of those 17 games, most fans believe, will virtually settle the race.

The Cubs, usually stronger at home than on the road, have been better than usual on foreign soil this year and unless they go into a prolonged slump or suffer an epidemic of illness and injuries they figure to break even in these forthcoming 17 games.

Such a record—and it is not at all unlikely they will do better than that—would put them just far enough ahead that it would be next to impossible for the Pirates or Giants to nose them out. There are, of course, other uncertainties. The Cubs might break even only to have the Pirates (or perhaps the Giants) go into a prolonged winning streak such as the Cubs have just enjoyed.

Such a performance might cut down the Cubs' present lead of seven and one-half games to such a margin that the race would be deadlocked from there on until the final week.

There is little chance, however, that the Cubs will go into a losing streak.

The seventeen road games the Cubs face include battels with every team in the league save Pittsburgh and St. Louis, which mans the only really tough team they must beat is the New York Giants. And they downed the Giants three straight in a recent series here.

Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Yesterday's Hero—Mel Ott of the New York Giants, who followed a two-base hit which cleared the bases to produce the winning run by pegging Clarke, Pittsburgh shortstop, out at the plate in the Pirates' half of the ninth, cutting off a belated rally and making possible New York's 11 to 10 victory.

Percy Jones of the Boston Braves brought to an end a brief winning streak of the St. Louis Cardinals, holding the National League champions to three hits and beating them, 5-to 0.

Hack Wilson, Chicago Cubs' center fielder, who has been an easy victim of Dazzy Vance's slants for many a ball game, got revenge Monday by slapping out a single in the 16th inning to drive home the winning run and beat the Brooklyn Robins, 9 to 8.

A four-run rally in the last of the ninth left the Cincinnati Reds still one run short, and the Phillies took the final game at Redland Park, 7-6.

With the New York Yankees idle, the Philadelphia Athletics had a narrow escape from dropping a full game to their rivals. After losing the opener to the St. Louis Browns by a 6 to 4 score, the American League leaders managed to drag the night cap out of the fire in the twelfth inning, 8 to 7.

Twenty-one hits turned into 21 runs gave the Washington Senators a victory over the Detroit Tigers, 21 to 5.

ASSOCIATION TABS

Ben Tincup was feeling fine and allowed the Indianapolis Indians only four hits in yesterday's game with Louisville. Louisville won the contest 5 to 1.

The Senators fell before a batting Blue aggregation, losing the game, 2 to 7. Columbus was allowed seven hits but couldn't connect. Kansas City made 11 hits.

Only two games were scheduled.

Modern Home Movement Has Civic Approval

PROPERTY VALUES GROWS WITH IMPROVEMENTS

Modernization Pays Dividends In Comfort

It goes without saying that a city or town is judged largely by the appearance of its homes. The stranger who drives through the streets passes summary judgment on the town based almost entirely on what he sees. The town is good or bad, depending on whether the residences are modern or antiquated in appearance.

That is just one aspect of the problem of modernization that is engaging the attention of the public at the present time. Civic pride demands that the city shall be comprised of smart appearing homes. The liveliness and progressiveness of the community from the outsiders' viewpoint depends largely on appearance.

Not only this but the desirability of living in a certain section of a town is based largely on the appearance of the homes in that vicinity. The better part of town is usually that part which can boast of the newer residences.

The desirability of a house is in a large degree a measure of its value. This desirability depends not only on its external appearance but also on the arrangement of the interior, the method of heating, the type of plumbing, the style of electrical fixtures, the choice of painting and decorating. If the home is up-to-date in these respects, it carries a higher value. If it is not modern, no matter how strong and substantially built, no matter how sturdy its construction, its intrinsic value is low. The home owner with a modern appearing residence can command a decidedly higher price than his neighbor next door whose home is old in design and layout.

And he can sell this modern residence in a slow market for these reasons.

Property value depends largely on the type of homes in the locality. The modernization of a residence will add value, not only to the house, itself, but also to property near it. This movement extended to a neighorhood will increase property value by ten or twenty per cent.

Modernizing a residence is a good business proposition. It lifts the house from the undesirables into the desirable classification. Old and undesirable property is good only for a first mortgage loan of less than 25 per cent its value.

On the other hand the same property modernized becomes good for a first mortgage loan of 50 per cent of its value.

The appraiser of the house judges largely by its appearance. He estimates its value not from the soundness of its timbers or the value of good workmanship that was put into it by the early building contractor, but by the outside lines, the floors, the plumbing, the lighting fixtures and other visible evidences of up-to-date construction. Such an estimate may seem superficial but it is based largely on the proposition of a quick sale. The appraiser is basing his figures on the reaction of a possible purchaser. He knows that the average purchaser of a home will buy sooner if the residence has the elements of modernization.

Hence the desirability of investing dollars and cents on a modernizating program has a fundamental element of gain. The owner not only enjoys greater comforts and beauty but he also secures a greater value in his home for the money invested.

Modernization Brings New Comforts

That's the masculine side of the picture. The man thinks of a better investment. Terms of value mean much to him. The woman, on the other hand, desires a modern home because of pride of possession, beauty of surroundings, comfort and utility.

Modernization brings new living comforts. Old fashioned stoves or antiquated types of heating plants are relegated to the background in favor of newer, modern methods of heating. Ugly, dusty-looking floors give way to beautiful hardwood, highly polished or waxed and easy to clean. Dingy electrical fixtures are superseded by modern fixtures and an abundance of electrical outlets, conveniently located to facilitate the use of the varied electrical appliances that ease the housewife's burden.

Modernization, you see, is more than a matter of the exterior lines of the house. It goes deep into the lives of the occupants. It touches them in every phase of their existence. It adds to the richness and fullness of their life.

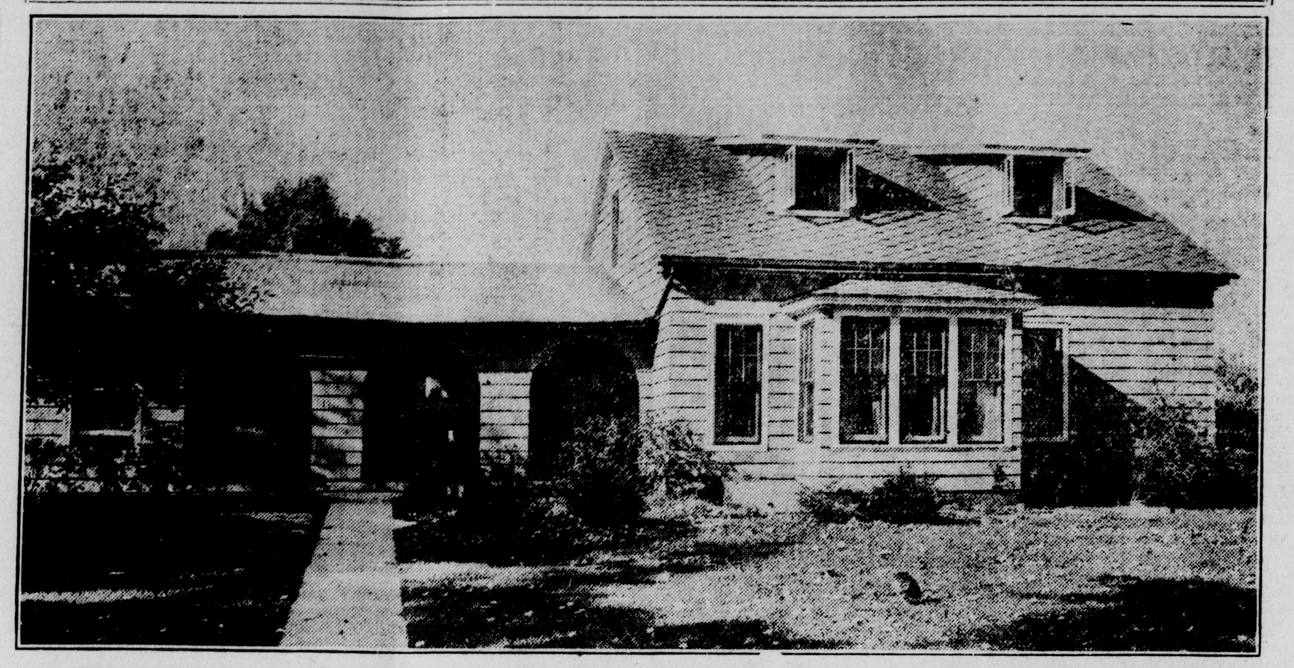
An Old House Made New and Modern



This smart looking residence shows the magic touch of modernization. Built forty years ago, it has been clothed in the simple effective lines of today. A far cry from its former appearance as depicted below.

This ugly shell of a house was the eye-sore of the neighborhood, yet was easily transformed into the beautiful dwelling pictured at the top. No house is hopeless when an experienced architect or contractor is given full sway.

CHARMING RESIDENCE OF WORN-OUT HOUSE

What modernization means when applied to the exterior of a house is aptly illustrated by the views on this page.

These cuts show more clearly than any description the radical improvement which takes place when a skilled architect or experienced contractor assumes the problem of improving a piece of property.

The illustration to the left shows a home that for sheer beauty of lines can seldom be surpassed. It is a home that any man or woman would be proud to own. It shows taste, refinement and an artistic appreciation of the value of simple lines.

Once an Eye-Sore

Yet this residence grew from the drab, dejected, lifeless husk of a house shown below. Before the magic of modernization touched it, the house was one to be avoided. It was an eye-sore of the neighborhood, a shack rather than a dwelling. A person with any pretentions to social respect would shun living in such a place.

Notice how cleverly the builder has applied his art to the old shell. These before and after pictures show how simple it was to transform the ugly duck house into the beautiful swan home.

The wooden shingles of the roof were replaced by asbestos shingles which will last the life of the dwelling. Two dormer windows side by side now pierce each slope of the roof of the main structure, allowing the old time attic to be transformed into liveable, cheerful sleeping chambers. Each dormer contains small-paned casement windows with outflung ventilators, welcoming the wary breeze during the hot summer days and nights.

Below the old wooden siding has been torn away and wooden shingles substituted. The bay of windows has been left but new counter-weighted sash with small panes above replaces the warped and battered windows of previous years. The broken cellar door slanting over a damp, ugly hole has been discarded and concrete steps now lead below to a door entering a rejuvenated basement. A front porch facing the street to the right was torn away and a stoop of Dutch design built in its stead.

Perhaps the greatest change to be noticed is in the treatment of the wing leading from the main structure. The ugly wooden enclosure of the side porch off the dining room has been torn away, three broad arches with shingle columns gracefully dividing the opening. The dining room now becomes one of the most cheerful rooms of the dwelling.

COLD HOUSE DUE TO POOR CONSTRUCTION

If you had trouble in heating your house during the past winter, it is unfair to blame the cause on the heating plant without making a thorough, impartial investigation to see if other factors enter to aid in giving you a cold home.

The heating plant of a residence, if properly installed, should give reliable, even heat during the coldest of weather.

When your home is subjected to constant cold, check not only into the heating plant but also the windows, the floors and the insulating of the walls. Any of these may be at fault and entirely to blame for those high fuel bills.

The windows may be loose, warped or shrunken. Loose windows allow the ready entrance of cold air and the house on the windward side will generally be cold and drafty if the entrance of air through the windows is permitted. The remedy may be weather-stripping, fitting storm windows or replacing the furring.

Poor floors often allow cold air to creep in, thus disturbing the heating arrangements and causing the fuel bills to mount to an unreasonable figure. Poor floors should be replaced by well seasoned hard wood. Properly installed by an experienced builder using good material, your floors should be practically airtight and cold resisting.

MILL STREET DISTRICT TO GET SEWER SYSTEM

Council Votes to Advertise for Bids for Construction of 24 Inch Drain

BIDS RETURNABLE SEPT. 3

County Commissioners, Water and Light Board, School Board to Give $2500 Each

Another plan for the advancement of larger Brainerd affecting approximately 400 residents in that section served by Mill street was announced by Alderman V. F. Anderson at the city council meeting last evening, calling for the establishment of a sewer system, starting at Mill street in the vicinity of the Leroux store and extending westward to the Mississippi river at a point below the dam at The Northwest Paper Mill.

After the financing plan had been explained by Alderman Anderson the council voted to advertise for bids for the sewer, bids returnable September 3.

The sewer, a 24 inch drain will be approximately 1800 feet in length. Construction will start before the completion of the tarviaing of State Aid Road No. 3 which continues along Mill street to Merrifield.

The new sewer will cost approximately $7,500, of which the County Board of Commissioners will pay $2,500, the Water and Light Board, $2,500 and the Brainerd Board of Education $2,500, Alderman Anderson said.

One of the first connections to be made to the new sewer will be that serving the Garfield school, thus remedying the sewerage disposal conditions existing there previously.

Theatre Contract Let

W. R. Hiller, manager of local theatres of Publix Theatres Inc. announced to the council last evening that the contract for improving the Park theatre had been let to the firm of Lienberg and Kaplan, Minneapolis contractors and that work on the building would start Wednesday or Thursday.

W. E. Lewis requested that a 12 ft. no parking zone for unloading purposes be established in front of Burg and Scott stores. The request was referred to the street committee with power to act.

Alexander Moe, Mrs. Mary Hay, Mary Isaacson, Wm. Wendt, W. R. Wilber were granted licenses to sell milk and cream.

The monthly report of Dr. R. A. Hallquist, dairy inspector, showed that 28 sediment tests were made, all being clean; 16 samples of milk and 12 samples of cream inspected, none being found illegal. One hundred and twenty hours were spent in milk inspection service, 350 miles being travelled while on duty during July.

Officials of the Northern Pacific railway conferred with the council relative to greater protection at railway crossings in the city after 6 p. m. and until 8 a. m. when watchmen are placed on the three more travelled crossings.

G. H. Jacobus, division superintendent, Duluth, said that the conditions would be studied further and recommendations for improving the safety at the crossings offered to the city council at an early meeting. Other officials in attendance were: W. D. Pearce, assistant superintendent, Duluth; F. L. Eukes, signal supervisor, St. Paul; and B. W. Larson, assistant signal supervisor, Duluth.

Fire Chief H. McGinn in a letter called attention to the rubbish burner on the Juel block which he said constituted a nuisance as well as a fire hazard. The matter was referred to the building inspector.

FALL SHEEP SHIPMENT

County Agept and Northern Pacific Development Agent to Cooperate in Work

County Agent E. G. Roth has just received a letter from A. J. Dexter, Agricultural Development Agent of the Northern Pacific, in regard to fall shipments of breeding ewes. Mr. Dexter states that "Although our June and July shipments of breeding ewes were by far the heaviest we have ever attempted at that season of the year, yet we placed all of them. I appreciate the assistance of the county agents who co-operated. Some very flattering letters have been received about the quality of the yearlings we furnished. Not one single kick has come into this office.

"Now for the September deliveries. We have one dandy contract for 4,000 head, all yearling black faces. Will deliver around September 20. The laid down price your station will not exceed $14.00 which covers freight, credit corporation charge and insurance for three years against fire, lightning, wind and tornado. Other contracts will be made as needed.

"The Agricultural Credit Corporation has been very lenient on loans this year. Many farmers securing a three year loan to purchase sheep without even making a down payment, additional security being given to margin the loan. We should take advantage of the Credit Corporation loan plan while we can. Anytime now they may stop making loans and our opportunity for increasing the livestock on our farms through this easy payemnt plan will be past."

X-RAY SHOWS BROWN HAS SKULL FRACTURE

Youthful Airmen in Crash Reported in Serious Condition at Local Hospital

BOTH SUFFER SEVERELY

Billings Fractures Jaw, Injured About Body; Parents of Brown Coming

The result of the X-ray examinations of Bob Brown and Ed. Billings, Manhattan, Kansas youths, injured Sunday in the plane crash at Pine Shores revealed today that Brown is suffering from a fractured skull, fractured shoulder and bruises about the face and body while Billings is suffering from a fractured jaw bone and injuries about the head and body.

The two are under careful attention at the St. Joseph's hospital. Brown is reported in a critical condition while Billing's injuries are also of a serious nature.

Parents of Brown were expected in Brainerd today from Manhattan.

The two were injured when the Monocoupe piloted by Billings crashed in the Whiteley woods, Pine Shores, at 2:17 p. m. Low altitude and a failing motor were blamed for the crash. The plane went into the start of a wing over, cut the tops of three pines and crashed on its back. Fortunately the plane did not take fire.

The youthful airmen were knocked semi-unconscious, Billings extricating himself from the wreckage with difficulty, Brown being taken from the plane by members of the Whiteley family who witnessed the crash.

The plane was owned jointly by Billings and Herbert Webb, Manhattan, formerly of Brainerd.

The Skyscraper Murder

by SAMUEL SPEWACK

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

PHILLIP EDISON is host at a night-club party to his just-recently-divorced wife and Oliver Sewell, sportsman and Don Juan. Edison presumes that Sewell and the divorcee are to be married. When the party breaks up, Edison goes to Sewell's home and, while he is waiting his return, is informed Sewell has been found dead. Inspector Marx begins a police investigation. He questions Sewell's Russian valet. The elevator operator is also questioned. He did not see Sewell return. A young medical examiner, with a taste for detective work, assists Marx. Their search of the apartment reveals complete wardrobes for women in different colors. In a safe-deposit box they find a scrap of paper bearing the inscription, "Paid in Full." The following day a Major Preston, who has been a sporting associate of Sewell's, is interrogated. Then Sewell's widow visits the apartment. She intimates that Preston might know something. As the investigators are standing, after Mrs. Sewell's departure, looking at a mirror door, it opens, and Mrs. Edison appears. She relates a story which the police do not believe. After she leaves, her lawyer threatens Marx with political reprisals if the woman is molested. Then Edison visits the apartment. As he goes out a shot is heard. The Russian butler is found dead and Edison is arrested. Mary Pennell, whose clothes are found in the apartment, is questioned. She identifies the "Paid in Full" note as in her uncle's the Major's, handwriting. A diary belonging to the dead butler is found. It relates a story of the famous Shah diamond which came into his hands in Russia while Sewell was there. Sewell gets possession of the diamond and takes it and the Countess Kurasova to America. The butler follows and enters Sewell's employ. He unearths evidence of Sewell's relations with the Countess. Also the actions of the many visitors Sewell entertained. Marx and the doctor learn that another man occupied the apartment with Sewell. Mary Pennell receives a mysterious note requesting her to meet the writer at Sewell's apartment if she wishes to clear Edison of all suspicion.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XX.

"NO, because he wouldn't have let me come. And, I did want to come. You don't know what you've done to him." Now her eyes were accusing. "He feels this terribly. He feels that every one's looking askance at him, that every one thinks he did murder that man. And some people do think that. I know it. So when I received this note, and I saw a chance of clearing him, I just came."

Marx nodded. The story seemed straight enough.

"Wouldn't you have come in my place?" she demanded.

"Yes, yes," Marx nodded absently. "By the way, did you notice that no time was specified?"

"Of course I did. But I thought I'd just wait."

"All right, girlie," Marx dismissed her. "Now you go home. And never mind about all these suspicious guys who think your young man did Sewell in. I'll issue a statement absolutely clearing him."

"Oh, will you?"

"Yea, sure. I only arrested him because I thought the real guy could be trapped. And he will be, too. Now just go home."

And Marx escorted her to the door and left her in the care of the elevator operator.

"Now," thought Marx, "it's a cinch that whoever wrote the note is right here, and has been right here all the time. It's a cinch that he's been living in the next house, and the one thing we've overlooked is that you don't have to jump over roofs to get into that apartment. There's a corridor leading right through connecting these two apartments. That means——"

But Marx's reflections were disturbed. The mirror swung to before his eyes, and Major Preston emerged into the room. The Major started as he saw Marx. The detective smiled.

"Hello, Major," he said. "Your expected visitor has gone."

"What—what visitor?"

"The young lady."

"I don't know what you're talking about."

"The young lady—your niece—came here but I sent her away. Does that mean anything to you?"

"My niece?" The Major seemed bewildered. He flushed uncomfortably. "What was my niece doing here?"

"What are you doing here?"

The Major paused.

"I don't have to answer that if I don't want to."

"No," said the Inspector. "But if I were you, I would. Now listen—how did you know about this trick door? Why did you come up here? Now come on with it, because if you don't, I can make things pretty uncomfortable for you. Now how about it?"

The Major seemed to squirm. Finally he sat down and ran a finger over the edge of his uncomfortable collar.

"All right," he said. "What do you want to know?"

"Well, to begin with—what are you doing here?"

The Major's finger once more traveled over his collar.

"Oh—I just came up to investigate. I can do that, can't I?"

"And you were such a good investigator that you immediately discovered the trick door? "I'll tell you something—you're a lot better investigator than I am."

"Thanks." The Major seemed scornful.

"Of course," amended Marx, "you had the advantage over us. You knew about the apartment that adjoins here. You knew how to get in here through it. But what I've got to say to you is this—come clean!" Marx bit at his cigar, as if to give emphasis to this warning, and regarded the Major with frowning eyes.

"Well, there really isn't much I can tell—" said the Major.

"All right," said Marx. "Maybe I can help you. There was this Shah diamond—"

The Major sat up. Marx stopped.

"Yes?" the Major said almost involuntarily.

"Oh, we know all about it," said Marx. "We know a lot of things. Now, listen, Major, and I'm not saying this again. You come through with the whole story, or I'll be compelled to arrest you."

"For what?"

"Material witness. It doesn't make any difference for what. I don't imagine you'd like going to jail, now would you?"

The Major seemed to consider very thoughtfully.

"All right," he said finally. "I'll come through. I'll tell you everything." He took a handkerchief nervously from his breast pocket and mopped his brow. "I might as well. It's been preying on my mind. Listen—"

I first met Sewell twenty years ago. Never mind how. I guess you'd call him a racetrack tout. And I guess you could call me that, too. With this difference—I come o fpretty good family. He doesn't. Low carat, and he was low in every way. We became partners, ran a book together. This was in Lexington. Then we came North.

Well, Sewell married. Married a woman who knew bridge. She taught him everything. Not only bridge, but manners, and how to use the right fork. And Sewell blossomed out. You know how crazy everybody is about bridge. It opened everything for him.

Then Sewell went to Europe. I got a few notes from him. Nothing much. For some reason he went to Russia. Sewell was always an adventurer and he thought he could put his hands on some rich concessions. I heard about this later.

But to come to the point—when Sewell came back from Russia he telephoned for me to meet him. I did. I'd never seen him so excited before. He says to me:

"Major, we've been doing business for a good many years. I've got something here that needs a little help. I don't know if you're the man for it, but in any case, let's talk it over."

And he shows me the diamond. I still get excited when I think of it.

"We've got to sell this," he says. "I'd rather remain in the background, if we're to do it well. Now what ideas have you got?"

To tell you the truth, I didn't have an idea in the world. But I saw a chance to make some money, and I pretended to be thinking heavily. So finally I says:

"Let me consider this. I'll be back in a few days.'

Well, I went away. It seemed to me the problem wasn't so difficult. I knew Eastern millionaires who'd give their shirts for a stone like that. Sewell was a little worried some of the royal family outside of Russia might raise a howl about it but I was reasonably sure that we could find a man—or a woman—who would buy the stone and keep it secret. Just for the thrill of having it. Of course, the legal difficulties might lower the price some, but still there ought to be enough for everybody concerned even at bargain rates.

HACK WILSON OF CUBS NAMED BEST

Specializes in Hitting When Long Hits Count.

Being a producer of home runs has its drawbacks. When Mr. Babe Ruth of the Yankees fails to knock the ball beyond the barriers he is booed loudly. Mr. Hack Wilson of the Cubs also is spoken to somewhat harshly by the populace whenever he fails to accomplish what is regarded as his specialty. In other words, Old Man Public is so saturated with the home run ballyhoo that when either Ruth or Wilson does not slap one for four bases they are looked upon as failures for the time being. Anything else they may do is not recognized as worth while, writes Irving Vaughan in the Chicago Tribune.

Any man who has the home run habit has a certain advantage that can't be overlooked, despite what failings he might have in other features of the game. It is home runs that helped to make Jim Bottomley of the Cards stand out among the first sackers. It is homers that make Ruth the monarch in right field. And Wilson the Hack has his homers. He has enough of them to lead his league. No other middle gardener in either major circuit is even close.

The real answer to Wilson's effectiveness on attack is found in the column labeled runs batted in. Hack was the second man in his league last year to pass the century mark in this particular. Bottomley beat him across. Then Pie Traynor of the Pirates forged into this exclusive classification, but even with their vastly superior batting averages neither Bottomley nor Traynor has pulled away from him in the matter of driving in runs, which is merely another way of saying hitting in the pinches.

In the National league there are at least two other center fielders who stand out above the mob. Douthit of the Cards is a highly capable fellow whose batting average won't run much above Wilson's. The St. Louis lad may have a slight edge as a fielder.

The other fellow of consequence in Heydler's circuit is Lloyd "Baby" Waner of the Pirates. He is running about a dozen tallies ahead of Douthit in crossing the plate, but in runs batted in he trails Hack by less than half. His batting average is more than thirty points above that of the muscular Chicagoan. Neither is Waner a reliable fielder. His throwing arm is practically worthless and despite excessive speed he is not a good base runner.

Standard Time

The United States Naval observatory has three standard clocks running in constant temperature vaults, electrically wound and sealed to keep the air pressure constant. Meridian circle observations of selected stars are taken regularly on clear nights, and from these observations the errors of standard clocks are determined. The observatory sends out time signals. Correct time is given over radio networks as an advertising device.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER RISES AT QUINCY

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—The Mississippi river rose two feet here during the night, following a torrential rainfall which lasted four hours.

Considerable damage was caused along the water front. Basements of a number of homes were flooded. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad tracks were under six inches of water at the station.

STRIKEBREAKERS DIG TRENCHES FOR GRAVES

New York, Aug. 6. — (U.P.) — Three trenches were dug by strikebreakers in Calvary cemetery, Queens, today to receive corpses aicumulating during a grave digger's strike which has lasted a week.

Meantime Health Commissioner Wynne offered himself as mediator and expected to confer today with officers of the newly formed grave digger's union and heads of the Calvary Cemetery Association.

More than 300 grave diggers, funeral car chauffeurs and gatekeepers walked out a week ago when the association discharged James Dougherty, head of the chauffeurs' union.

When the difficulty is settled the bodies will be disinteered and reburied in separate plots.

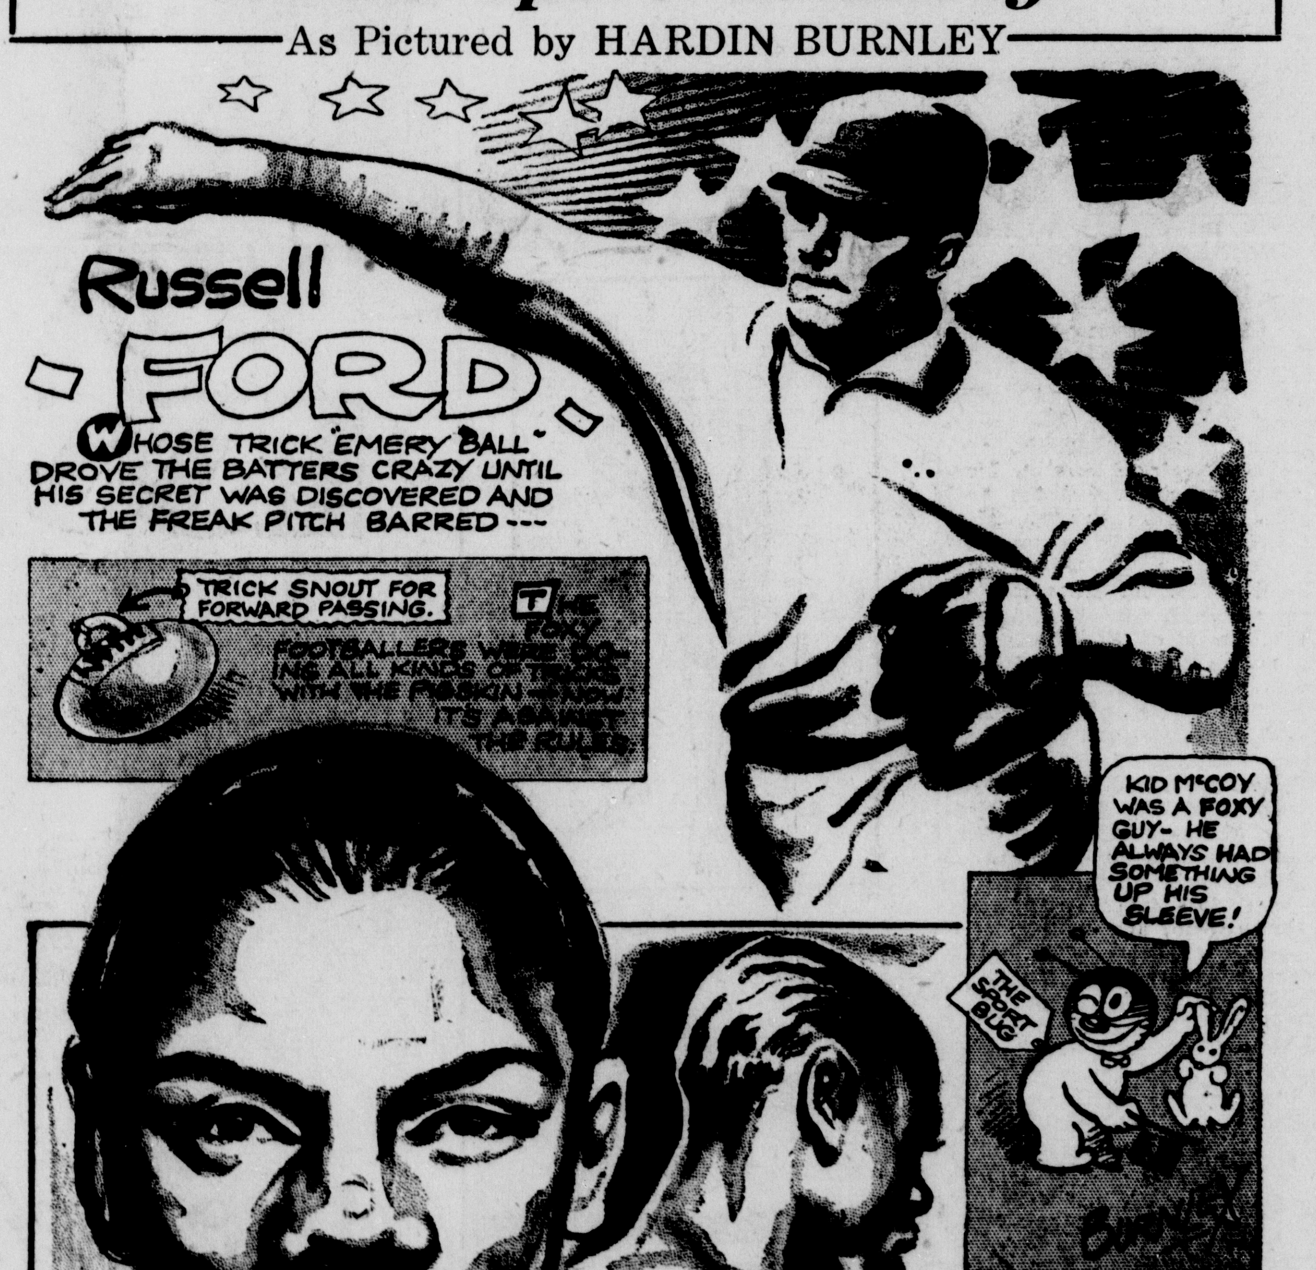
Some Sport Trickery

As Pictured by HARDIN BURNLEY



FROM lead foil bandaging, that puts the cutting kick of an ancient cestus into a modern boxing glove, to the so-called "emery ball," which baffled hundreds of baseballers until its banishment, is a far leap, yet both artifices come under the general heading of "sport trickery."

To make the fistic blow deadlier, to add zip to a baseball's curve, to inject necessary extra steam into a selling plater for a race track coup—these and countless other phases of sport are ever subject to more or less "phenagling," as fandom commonly calls orthodox trickery.

Some of these sharp practices are almost ethical, but most of them range the borders of every crime, from grand larceny to homicide.

Of course, the famous Russ Ford's use of emery to make his speeders hop mysteriously by no means puts his picture in baseball's rogues' gallery. Ford was within the rules then existing or, at least, his "emery" stunt could be defended without any resort to criminal law. The spit-ball was in vogue and, if anything, those emery shoots were cleaner variations of salivaed efforts to increasing pitching efficiency. Indeed, Ford's discovery proved one of the smartest of all diamond ideas, even though it was finally ruled out.

Boxing lore is crammed with odoriferous trickery and also much more or less legitimate "smart stuff." In the latter category take the glossy-haired Kid Chocolate as a glistening example. He sports more hair-dressing than Walter Hagen, that be possible. And how that oil pours over his face, neck, shoulders, arms and chest soon after he warms to action! The rules prohibit oiling but—once Kid Chocolate starts to shed his sheiky varnish, he's as easy to hit squarely as greased lightning. Wonder who'll be the first to make him shave (or dry) his head!

Of course, rumor and legend undoubtedly exaggerated ring trickery. Fitz was always denying that his bandages were ever lined with plaster of paris; and, to this day, Dempsey has to repudiate the story that lead foil wrapping helped him cut Jess Willard down in jig time.

Football, too, is full of "Micky Finn" stratagems, the most famous of all involving the Carlisle Indian who cantered through a Harvard team for a touchdown with the ball tucked under his sweater. And then there are the grid's "queer" ball incidents. Surely it would take a corps of coroners and surgeons to dissect the darker legends of gridiron trickeries.

Though rumor and legend grossly exaggerate, a brief list of sports' authentic trickeries would fill a tome or two.
